

My dream in life is straightforward! Ever since I was little my passion in life was always art and it still is today! I also grew up on enjoying taken care of kids! Before I officially decided that I was going to pursue my degree in Web Design, and Development I wanted to be a NICU nurse. I changed because it was too much school for me! I do plan on getting an associate degree in nursing a few years from now! With my degree I plan to have two minors so that my knowledge and skills can expand, and my talent can spread within different opportunities of category in art.

I'm already on the go with having my own business. Where I design different things like logos, flyers, stickers, etc. I plan to expand my ability to new things! Two things I'm adding to my talent is making custom phone cases and shoes of any sort. I plan to be able to work with different companies within my degree Web Design and Development. To accomplish everything that I plan on doing I have to leave Little Rock and move somewhere that my work is needed! I always want to expand my talent throughout the whole world so it can reach different people.

December 31, 2021, my life changed, and I became a mother! A lot of things I did before I found out I was expecting I put it to a stop until I get into a good space where I can come back stronger. In this coming year I plan to have everything as far as my own car, and place to live! Being a full-time mom and a full-time student at school is a lot to deal with but I manage to keep going and not give up for the sake of my son. My motivation to keep going are the people who continuously down me and judge me for the way I live my life. Once I make it to where I want to be no one can tell me nothing.

In the next 5 years I will be 26 years old! My son will be 5 and we should be out of Little Rock! I see myself working with a company or two and my side hustle which is my business! My business comes with a lot of different things I can do, or I learned to do when I was in school! If everything is decent and in order, I would go back to school to my associates in nursing! I'm wanting to have multiple incomes come in so I can give the life my son deserves! I would also prob be some sort of a sports mom also!

I want to also be able to travel and go explore the world learning new things! My son deserves the world since birth he has been through a lot with having multiple surgeries, and more. What's better then exploring the world with your kid! I am excited with my future. I am and will be away from family due to me wanting to move out of Little Rock but that is what's best for me!
